

WHAT YOU NEED TO KNOW ABOUT OVERDRAFTS AND OVERDRAFT FEES

An overdraft occurs when you do not have enough money in your account to cover a transaction, but we pay it anyway. We can cover your overdrafts in two different ways.

1. We have standard overdraft practices that come with your account.
2. We also offer overdraft protection plans, such as a link to a savings account or loan which may be less expensive than our standard overdraft practices. To learn more, ask us about these plans.

This notice explains our standard overdraft practices for your account type.

➤ What are the standard overdraft practices that come with my account?

We do authorize and pay overdrafts for the following types of transactions.

- Checks and other transactions made using your checking account number
- Automatic bill payments

We do not authorize and pay overdrafts for the following types of transactions unless you ask us to (see below).

- ATM transactions
- Everyday debit card transactions

We pay overdrafts at our discretion, which means we do not guarantee that we will always authorize and pay any type of transaction.

If we do not authorize and pay an overdraft, your transaction will be declined.

➤ What fees will I be charged if Auburn University CU pays my overdraft?

Under our standard overdraft practices:

- We will charge you a fee of $25.00 for each item we pay into overdraft.
- There is no limit on the total fees we can charge you each day for overdrawing your account.

➤ What if I want Auburn University CU to authorize and pay overdrafts on my ATM and everyday debit card transactions?

Auburn University Credit Union

Discretionary Overdraft Privilege Disclosure

It is the policy of Auburn University Credit Union to comply with all applicable laws and regulations and to conduct business in accordance with applicable safety and soundness standards.

The Deposit Account Agreement and Disclosure provided to you at the time you opened your account with us controls the duties, obligations and rights of the Depositor, the Authorized Signatories and Auburn University Credit Union with regard to your checking account. The Deposit Account Agreement (and all amendments thereto) and its terms shall control any possible conflict, if any, between any provision of this Discretionary Overdraft Privilege Disclosure and the Deposit Account Agreement and Disclosure. A copy of the Deposit Account Agreement and Disclosure is available to you on request from your Auburn University Credit Union member service representative.

The Overdraft Privilege is not a line of credit. However, if you inadvertently overdraw your account, we will have the discretion to pay the overdraft, subject to the limit of your Overdraft Privilege and the amount of the overdraft fee. Auburn University Credit Union is not obligated to pay any item presented for payment if your account does not contain sufficient available funds. Any discretionary payment by Auburn University Credit Union of an overdraft check (or item, such as an ATM withdrawal) does not obligate Auburn University Credit Union to pay any other overdraft check (or item), or to provide prior notice of its decision to refuse to pay such check (or item).

Pursuant to Auburn University Credit Union's commitment to always provide you with the best level of service, now and in the future, if your consumer checking account (primarily used for personal and household purposes) has been open for at least thirty (30) days, and thereafter you maintain your account in good standing, which includes at least:

- A) Bringing your account to a positive balance within every thirty (30) day period for a minimum period of 24 hours;
- B) Not being in default on any loan or other obligation to Auburn University Credit Union and
- C) Not being subject to any legal or administrative order or levy,

Auburn University Credit Union will have the discretion to pay overdrafts within the Overdraft Privilege limit, but payment by Auburn University Credit Union is a discretionary courtesy and not a right of the member or an obligation of Auburn University Credit Union. Auburn University Credit Union in its sole and absolute discretion can cease paying overdrafts at any time without prior notice of reason or cause.

This privilege for consumer checking accounts will generally be limited to a maximum of $500 overdraft (negative) balance, or if the member has a direct deposit into the account greater than $500, the limit will be equal to the direct deposit amount (rounded to the nearest $10 increment) not to exceed $1,000 overdraft (negative) balance. Limits based on direct deposit will be updated quarterly. Of course, any and all fees and charges, including without limitation the non-sufficient funds fees (as set forth in our fee schedules and deposit account agreement and disclosure), will be included as part of this maximum amount. It may be possible that your account will become overdrawn in excess of the Overdraft Privilege amount as a result of the assessment of a fee.

The total of the discretionary Overdraft Privilege (negative) balance, which includes any and all fees and charges, including all non-sufficient funds/overdraft fees is due and payable upon demand, and Depositor and each Authorized Signatory will continue to be liable, jointly and severally, for all such amounts, as described in the Deposit Account Agreement and Disclosure. Our standard Overdraft fee of $25 will be imposed for overdrafts created by checks, ACH, ATM withdrawals, everyday debit card transactions, in-person withdrawals, or by other electronic means. Transactions may not be processed in the order in which they occurred, and the order in which transactions are received and processed may impact the total amount of fees incurred.

For our consumer members Auburn University Credit Union will not pay overdrafts for ATM or everyday debit card transactions unless Auburn University Credit Union has provided you with the notice required by section 205.17(b) of Regulation E and you have opted into the payment of these overdrafts. In order to avoid overdrafts due to ATM and everyday debit card transactions, Auburn University Credit Union will place a hold on your account for any ATM or everyday debit card transactions authorized until the transaction settles. ATM and everyday debit card transactions usually settle within two business days after the transaction is authorized. The amount of the hold will be for the amount authorized, or as permitted under applicable payment network rules. Holds on authorized ATM and everyday debit card transactions will be removed prior to settlement where required by applicable payment network rules.

You may opt out of the Overdraft Privilege services for check, ACH and debit card bill payment transactions at any time by contacting one of our Member Service Representatives.
